[Apostille Certificate Guide]

1.Apostille Convention:
Multilateral convention that authorizes a country issuing an official document to certify the document, eliminating the need for complex certification procedures including legalization by the consul in the country of sojourn, thus facilitating the international use of official documents between signatories.

2.Documents subject to system
a. Documents emanating from the State or local governments: Family relation certificates, academic transcripts issued by public schools, etc.
b. Notarial documents: Certificates issued by private schools, medical certificates, documents issued by companies and banks, etc.
·Limited to countries that are parties to the Apostille Convention (For countries not party to the convention, submission of certification documents issued by the Korean consulate in the host country or the foreign embassy in Korea)

3.Issuing Procedures: For various certificates issued by foreign schools, etc., an Apostille Certificate must be applied for and obtained from the government agency designated by the country where the school is located. (www.hcch.net)
